

ABOUT THE CTC

The Colorado Tree Coalition (CTC) is a volunteer organization leading statewide efforts to preserve, renew and enhance community forests. Increased funding from the Community Forestry Assistance Act in the early 1990s allowed the CTC to grow from modest beginnings as a group of metro foresters into a statewide non-profit. Since the CTC's incorporation in 1995, it has extended its reach to all corners of Colorado and into neighboring states.

The CTC provides programs, services and thousands in annual grants to Colorado communities. Programs administered by CTC include the Champion Tree, Tree Risk Assessment and Fifth Grade Arbor Day Poster Contest. Additionally, the Trees Across Colorado program provides low cost trees to Colorado communities, and the ReForest Colorado program helps communities recover from natural disasters.

The CTC is a membership-driven organization, and it encourages individuals, organizations and communities to become members.
